

RUSSIA PROPOSES NON-AGGRESSION PACT

About Town

And Country
By TIMOTHEUS T.

TIMOTHEUS UNBOUND (Or not much ado about anything): During these past snow-covered evenings I've been working on a story. I haven't got this narrative all worked out yet but I'm working.

If you want to know a bit about it, I'll give you a synopsis.

The hero goes out looking for a girl named Ruth. He goes to the big city, New York, in his search. He finds Abigail, Adeline, Adelaide, Alethea, Alfreda, Anastasia, Angelica, Anita and Ann but he cannot find a girl named Ruth.

No. But does he give up?

He goes to Chicago. There he runs across Belinda, Bellas, Bessies, Bridget and even a Benedicta, but he most certain does not locate a Ruth.

He's still undaunted. He goes to Los Angeles in search of a Ruth. Does he find one there? He locates a Camilla, a Candace, a couple of Carlotta, three Carmels, a Celeste, Claribel, Clementina, Clodilia, Cornelia and two Cynthia. But doggone it, he can't locate a Ruth.

Time goes on and on and on. He finds Dagmar and Daphnes, Dinahs and Dianahs, Dorothys and Dorotheas, Ediths and Edythes, Ednas and Edwinas, Euphemias and Evadeans, Felicias and Fidelias and Ermengardes and Eudoras. But you know the answer. No Ruths.

Years later he gives up and dies without finding a Ruth.

I'm calling my story "Ruthless."

AND I WAS WONDERING why Edward R. Murrow, in his network program in which he interviews somebody for 15 minutes, then shifts to the home of somebody else and interviews this person for 15 minutes, cannot get Billy Graham for one of the 15-minute periods and Bishop Sheen for the other 15 minutes. Then he could call his program "Parson to Parson."

And there's something else I've figured out. I know you've worked crossword puzzles; but did you ever try to concoct one? If you have had the same sad results as I, you've gone along nicely for a while, then have come up with a seven letter word that looks something like this: zprafpt. Or like this: aawwkri. Or like this: mlwraa. They mean nothing. But you've got a lot of good words already fit in that you don't want to tear up and yet you have your zprafpt and your aawwkri and your mlwraa.

I've come up with a solution to permit you to use such conglomerations. Just describe them as "Sound made by infant." You can't miss.

NOW THAT I have got all this out of my system, maybe something better some day.

Porchlight Parade To Climax Mothers' March on Polio

The 1956 Mothers' March Against Polio will swing into action at 4:30 o'clock Monday evening, Jan. 30, Mrs. Ed Brantley, County Mothers' March chairman, announced today.

The traditional "porchlight parade," which is scheduled for one hour, will climax the organization's month long drive for funds to aid those suffering from infantile paralysis, Mrs. Brantley said.

During the March approximately 200 mothers will make a door-to-door canvass for contributions to aid the polio fight.

According to custom, home owners who wish to give will signify their desire by turning on their porchlights or by leaving a lamp or candle in the front window.

To make sure that every house in the county is covered, Mrs. Brantley said, the area will be broken down into districts, with a captain in charge of each. The March has been limited to an hour, so that Mothers who take part will have to spend only a short time away from their families, the county campaign director said.

Postpone Default Day Until Monday

Default day, scheduled for today in circuit court, was postponed until Monday by Judge C. Ross Reynolds of Vienna, presiding judge, at the request of a number of local attorneys who desired to attend a law meeting at Mt. Vernon today.

Warsaw Pact Parley Opens; Blast at U. S.

Red Powers Work Out Details of European Army

LONDON (AP)—The Communist Warsaw Pact powers, opened a conference in Prague, Czechoslovakia, today with a blast at the United States for attempting "to renew the cold war."

Military and political officials of the Soviet Union and the seven Eastern European satellites met to work out details of the organization of a Red European army which would outnumber Western defenders seven to one.

The Red Star, official newspaper of the Russian Defense Ministry, hinted that the rearmament of West Germany would be a major consideration of the Prague meeting.

The Czech news agency Cetecka reported that in an opening speech Czech Defense Minister V. Alexei Cepicka accused the United States of trying to stir up trouble between East and West.

"Contrary to the will of the (American) people, attempts are being made to renew the 'cold war,'" Cepicka said.

The "political consultative" conference is expected to welcome Red Germany's newly-acknowledged army to the alliance and to plan coordination of the Communist world.

Soviet Leaders Attend

Three top Soviet officials—Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov, Defense Minister G. K. Zhukov and Marshal I. I. Konev, Red supreme commander in Europe—are attending the meeting.

Red China's best general, Vice President Chu Teh, and one of his chief subordinates, Marshal Nieh Jung Chen are sitting in as "observers." But the 5,000,000-man Communist army in China is not formally part of the force at the disposal of the conferees.

The army controlled by the conference was unified officially last May by the Red Warsaw Pact, which grouped European satellite forces under Russian command.

In fact, the armies of Red Europe had been controlled by Russia ever since World War II. The pact served two real purposes—it gave Russia an excuse for maintaining forces in Romania and Hungary, and it provided formal authorization for the infiltration of potentially-unreliable satellite armies by Soviet troops.

Explosion Sets Off $70,000 Fire at Marion

MARION, Ill. (AP)—An explosion set off a fire that caused at least $70,000 damage to a Marion auto parts company today.

The explosion of a tank of cleaning fluid spread flames throughout a machine shop of the E. Blankenship Auto Parts Co. The blast was set off by a smaller fire caused when a spark from a welding torch ignited gasoline leaking from a truck.

No one was injured in the explosion of fire.

Earl Blankenship, owner of the company, said damage to the machine shop building and its contents would be at least $70,000. The fire also damaged an adjacent warehouse and automotive supplies stored there, but Blankenship said that loss will not be known until inventory is taken.

Firemen fought the warehouse fire under control before it reached a large amount of motor oil and anti-freeze stored there.

Sues Bus Firm for $50,000 Damages

Dorothy M. Weise has filed a lawsuit in circuit court asking $50,000 damages from the Peoria and Rockford Bus Co., which operates buses through Saline county between Carbondale and Evansville.

Her complaint, filed by Atty. Glen O. Jones and Atty. Charles H. Thompson, says she was injured while a passenger on a bus June 6, 1955, at a point two and half miles southwest of Crossville.

The complaint charges the bus driver applied the brakes suddenly and left the highway and that she suffered injuries.

TEEN-AGE TERROR STRIKES CHICAGO—Donald Stevens, 18, Chicago high school student, is visited by his father, Stephen, in hospital after being severely beaten by four "tough-guy" teenagers in an unprovoked attack. Later, the Stevens family was threatened with more violence unless the charges against the attackers are dropped, and Mr. Stevens (right photo) stands guard at his home with a shotgun. In further teen violence an 18-year-old was stabbed to death on a Chicago street, a policeman was fatally shot and police are conducting a roundup of the city's "tough-guys" in effort to stop the teen-age terror. AWOL Soldier, 17, Admits Killing Chicago Cop, Wounding Second

CHICAGO (AP)—A 17-year-old AWOL soldier confessed that he shot and killed a veteran Chicago policeman and wounded another in a night club gun battle, police said today.

Deputy Chief of Detectives Harry Penz said the youth, identified as Donald Lawrence, made the confession to military authorities at nearby Ft. Sheridan.

Military authorities confirmed the confession report and said Lawrence, a Negro, had been identified by witnesses of the Wednesday night gun battle.

The confession ended a grim manhunt for the killer of Detective Lyons Kelliher, 33, in a Southwest Side jazz spot. The killing was the latest outbreak of a juvenile crime wave in Chicago and was the second slaying by a teenager in 24 hours.

Details of Lawrence's confession were not immediately released. However, police said they went to a flat he occupied and found a blunt-nosed revolver which fitted the description of the murder gun.

Ft. Sheridan authorities said Chicago police picked up Lawrence as an AWOL soldier from Ft. Carlson, Colo., late Thursday.

He was turned over to military police and was then questioned about the Kelliher slaying.

The young soldier broke down after he was confronted by witnesses who saw Kelliher gunned down to the accompaniment of a brassy jazz band.

Kelliher was killed and his partner, William Derrig, was shot twice when they made a routine investigation of the night club to check reports that it was a hang-out for narcotics addicts.

The killer whipped out a gun and, firing with professional accuracy, shot Derrig in his hand and pierced Kelliher's chest with two bullets.

"I Started Shooting" Police said Lawrence told them he was standing at the bar with the gun stuck in his belt when Kelliher and Derrig approached him.

"They asked what I was doing there and I told them 'buying cigarettes for my mother,'" Lawrence was quoted as saying. "Then they tried to frisk me and I started shooting."

Lawrence said he dashed from the night club, escaping a fusillade from Derrig's gun, and joined four friends a short distance away. He told the friends he had killed a policeman and passed his gun among the teen-agers for them to admire, police said.

The youth said he returned to his apartment, hid the gun, and was captured later while running through a park.

Altmires Attend Civil Defense Meeting at SIU

County Civil Defense Chairman Ray W. Altmire and Mrs. Altmire attended a radiological defense meeting held Thursday at Southern Illinois university.

The meeting was a statewide program for training high school science teachers in radiological defense and nearly 100 Civil Defense officials and Southern Illinois science teachers and school administrators attended the all-day session.

Vernon L. Nickell, state superintendent of public instruction, and SIU science instructors were the principal speakers.

The meeting was an outgrowth of a gathering last fall in Champaign called by the Civil Defense committee of the Illinois Curriculum Revision committee at which 23 state colleges and universities were represented.

The committee's basic plan—to set up special college courses to train high school science teachers in radiological defense—was explained by its chairman, Dr. H. L. Richards, Blue Island high school superintendent.

State Superintendent Vernon L. Nickell endorsed the program, which he said would disseminate radiological defense information to school children and, through them, to their parents.

The program also would encourage young people to enter fields of science "vital to the nation's security," he added.

SIU President Delyte W. Morris pledged the cooperation of Southern Illinois university in providing special instruction as needed to aid the Civil Defense effort.

After the meeting Mrs. Altmire visited for a while with Mrs. R. L. Foster, formerly of Harrisburg, who is attending classes at SIU working towards a degree.

Four U. S. Pilots Bail Out Near Okinawa; Rescued

TOKYO (AP)—Four American pilots were forced to bail out when their F86F Sabre jet fighter planes ran out of fuel almost simultaneously off Okinawa, the Air Force announced.

Three of the pilots parachuted into the East China Sea and were picked up in a massive rescue operation launched immediately by U. S. military aircraft, naval vessels and a Japanese ferry boat. The fourth pilot floated to earth near Okuma, on Okinawa.

All four pilots escaped uninjured, the Air Force said.

They were identified as: 1st Lt. George E. Tims, Wyandotte, Mich.; 1st Lt. Walter H. Pears, Crews, Va.; 2nd Lt. Leonard M. Weeks Jr., Milwaukee, Wis., and 2nd Lt. John Bardwich, Flossmoor, Ill.

An Air Force announcement said there "is no indication that sabotage was a factor in the loss of the aircraft."

The planes on a route training mission, ran into a storm while returning to their base on Okinawa, according to the spokesmen, and ran out of fuel while attempting to fly around it.

Dismiss Murder Charge in New Harmony Death

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP)—A murder indictment against Norman Atchison, 31, Mount Vernon, Ill., accused of killing a town marshal at New Harmony, was dismissed Thursday in Vanderburgh Circuit Court.

Atchison was indicted on charges that Marshal Ralph Fisher died of a heart attack brought on in a struggle with Atchison outside a tavern which was being burglarized last year.

Atchison was tried by a jury last November and found guilty of murder. The jury recommended life imprisonment.

But Special Judge A. Dale Eby of Princeton granted a motion for a new trial on grounds the state had failed to prove conclusively that Fisher's death was a result of the struggle with Atchison, who faces burglary and auto banditry charges in Posey Circuit Court at Mount Vernon, Ind.

Eby dismissed the indictment when Prosecutor Richard Hawley of Posey county reported the state could produce no further evidence.

Atchison will be returned to Posey county to face the burglary and banditry charges. A brother, Lowell, 28, also awaits trial on similar charges.

Norris City Man Arrested Here

City Policemen Pat Atkinson and John Dunn last night made a run to the Smith Packing Co., called there by the night watchman who said he had seen a man prowling around.

Arriving, the man could not be found but an automobile was at the plant, and a check with police headquarters revealed the license was issued to Robert L. Vines of Norris City Route 3.

The officers waited near the car and soon a man approached. He was arrested and taken to the city hall, where he identified himself as Vines and said he was lost.

Chief of Police Ross Lane said the man had a receipt on him where he had sold hogs at Carmi yesterday for $115. He had $77 on him when arrested.

Lane said he was being charged with intoxication.

Thousands at Billy Graham Rallies in India

Crowds at Madras Attend from Hundreds of Miles Away

By GEORGE BURNHAM
Chattanooga News-Free Press Staff Writer

MADRAS, India (AP)—Among many thousands of people who poured into Madras from all parts of India to hear Billy Graham was one man who walked over 400 miles. He preached at villages along the way.

When told about the man Billy replied, "I am not worthy of preaching to that man. I should be sitting at his feet."

One hundred people from Hydrabad, 800 miles away, rode a train four days and nights. They had been praying in a 24-hour chain for weeks that God would bless India through Billy.

When all accommodations in town were gone people went from house to house seeking rooms. Hundreds slept in the open. They had come to hear a man who had the peculiar talent for talking about God in a language that people could understand.

30,000 at Rally

Morning meetings at 7 o'clock and evening meetings at 6 o'clock were scheduled for three days. The morning meetings were held for ministers, with more than 5,000 on hand at dawn for the first meeting.

Over 30,000 turned out for the evening rally. Some of the people sat at the site all day. About 3,000 were present by 2 p. m. Billy had the larger crowds but there was something different about this one. People, some dressed in rags and others in the finest of silk robes, sat there on grass mats and waited. Most were barefooted. Men and women never sit together in church. There was no hum of conversation. People were quiet.

There were two choirs of 300 each. One sang in English, the other in Indian dialect. An Indian band played music which had a foot-patting beat to it.

Billy stepped up to the mike. He had two interpreters instead of the usual one. The message had to be translated into Telugu and Tamil dialects. He would stop after each phrase or sentence and had plenty of time to scratch his head before time to speak again. India has hundreds of dialects. People can live 20 miles apart and

Rule Investigators Must Not Link Questions Solely for Exposure Purposes

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U. S. Court of Appeals has confronted congressional Communist investigators with a legal roadblock that appears headed for early analysis by the Supreme Court.

The barrier relates to the refusal of witnesses to testify about activities of past associates. Numerous citations for contempt of Congress have been issued for such refusal.

Thursday the court, in a 2-to-1 ruling, held that committee questions about another person's past must be linked to proposed legislation and not designed solely for exposure purposes.

The decision ordered the acquittal of John T. Watkins, 44, a United Auto Workers organizer who had drawn a $500 fine and a suspended one-year jail sentence for his bawdy conduct before a House subcommittee on un-American activities April 29, 1954.

Watkins, a native of Rock Island,

Gray Requests $4,350,000 For Lake Project

Congressman Kenneth J. Gray (D-West Frankfort) representing the 25th District of Illinois today asked Congress for a total expenditure of $4,350,000 for the entire Devils Kitchen Dam project.

Gray today testified before the House Appropriations committee asking for an appropriation of $1,000,000 to be spent in fiscal 1957 which begins on July first of this year. The amount, he said, would be added to the $1,000,000 appropriated last year, making a total of $2,000,000 to be spent in the next fiscal year. Gray stated the $1,000,000 he is requesting for this year has been approved by the Bureau of the Budget and is the amount the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the Corps of Engineers informed him they would be able to spend on this year's construction.

Gray states the original cost estimate for completing the dam itself is still $2,500,000 but that he is requesting funds for an additional $1,850,000 to be used in building the following:

1. A complete network of access roads;
2. A public beach;
3. A public boat dock;
4. Survey and planning for private cabin sites.

If these additional improvements are allowed it will be the total of $4,350,000.

Gray stated that if all possible benefits are to be derived from this lake we must have adequate facilities to attract tourists and outside trade. He said there was no reason why southern Illinois could not be another "Lake of the Ozarks" with the completion of Devils Kitchen lake, the proposed Rend lake in Franklin county and other proposed lakes in southern Illinois.

Gray told the Appropriations committee that money spent on the Devil's Kitchen Dam project and the entire Crab Orchard Lake Refuge in general was in no way a gift or handout by the federal government as receipts from the refuge have been averaging over $200,000 per year. In 1955 a total of $223,000 was paid into the U. S. Treasury from rentals of buildings, land, sale of water and other services. He said the Devil's Kitchen lake is completely finished, the refuge would be substantially increased for the benefit of the government in addition to helping stimulate the area economy by providing more jobs and increased trade.

Ill., talked freely about persons whom he thought were still Communists at the time of the hearing. But he refused information about those he felt had long since left the movement. He himself had been named a party member from 1943 to 1946 by previous witnesses. He denied membership but admitted he had cooperated with the Communists.

In ordering Watkins' acquittal, Chief Judge Henry W. Edgerton emphasized that Congress may not indulge in exposures for their own sake, apart from its duty to legislate. He noted that the resolution establishing the House committee authorized no such exposures.

Nevertheless, he said, the committee's idea of its mission seems to be investigation for purposes of exposure alone. He said this thinking was evident not only in the examination of Watkins but in the "words and conduct of the committee on other occasions."

Belt of Neutral Nations Urged in Bulganin Letter

Speculate Soviets Seek to Upset Talks with Eden

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia has proposed to President Eisenhower a non-aggression pact which, in effect, calls for separating the free and Communist worlds by a belt of neutral nations, informed sources said today.

The non-aggression proposal, the sources said, was couched in vague terms in the now-famous personal letter sent to Mr. Eisenhower by Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin.

But diplomatic sources speculated that under the proposal the United States would be expected to accept the present division of Europe in return for a Soviet pledge not to attack the free world and to agree to the reunification of Germany.

The White House flatly refused to shed any light on the letter. Press Secretary James C. Hagerty also declined to comment on reports that France had received copies.

But when he was asked about a report that Mr. Eisenhower and Bulganin have exchanged several unpublished letters since last fall, Hagerty replied: "I don't believe that is accurate."

The sources said Bulganin in his letter also called for limitations on nuclear weapons, presumably including calling off further H-bomb tests.

These revelations gave added weight to earlier speculations that the Bulganin letter was designed to upset next week's talks between Mr. Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Anthony Eden. Both proposals made by the Soviet premier were expected to have appeal to the British and find disfavor with the United States.

Eden Proposed Pact

Eden himself previously has proposed an East-West settlement based on an European-wide non-aggression pact patterned after the 1925 Locarno agreement. And sentiment for calling off further H-bomb tests is strong in Great Britain.

Eden's original proposal for a Locarno-type pact was strongly rejected by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and caused a reported temporary rift between the two. Under the Locarno agreement major European powers, in effect, told long-time enemies Germany and France: "If either of you attacks the other, we will come to the aid of the invaded nation."

The new Russian non-aggression proposal was considered by some diplomats as a logical extension of a previous Russian plan to include the United States in a 26-nation, 50-year, all-European security pact. This was first proposed at the Big Four foreign ministers meeting in 1954.

Molotov Renewed Proposal

Last October at Geneva Russian Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov renewed the proposal. Under it, an armed attack on any European nation would be an attack on all signers.

But Dulles rejected that proposal, saying it would be most difficult for the United States to consider it until Russia agreed to reunification of Germany along democratic lines.

The United States has frequently maintained in the face of other Russian non-aggression moves that the United Nations charter itself—which both the U. S. and Russia are bound by—is a non-aggression pact. It also has stressed that under any non-aggression agreement it would insist on a free reunified Germany having the right to decide whether it wanted to join the western defense organization.

Highly placed sources said the United States in reply to Bulganin urged Russia to agree to some limit on its vast military manpower as part of a new plan to break the East-West deadlock.

Economic Message Spells Out Forthright Program

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The clearest statement yet on Eisenhower administration policies is contained in the 53 specific recommendations of the President's new economic report.

Many Eisenhower enthusiasts may not realize there is such a thing as an administration program. When they say they are all-out Eisenhower supporters and would like to see him serve a second term, they are speaking in terms of personal loyalty to a hero leader.

Ask the average like man what the President's program is, however, and you'll probably get a blank stare or a general statement he's for a balanced budget and peace.

From Eisenhower's opponents there might come an answer that the President is for the GOP, big business and special privilege, or that he has done nothing for organized labor and the farmers.

ONE LOOK at the President's recommendations in his annual Economic Report to Congress outlines the policies.

What emerges is a 12-point program of farm relief, reduction of unemployment, increased earnings for low-income groups, greater social security for older people, greater aid for victims of disaster, more slum clearance and public housing, aid to education and hospital facilities, encouragement of higher education, expansion of international trade, strengthening of antitrust law enforcement, continuation of existing tax rates and increasing the stability of the expanding U. S. economy.

There are from two to nine detailed recommendations under each of these main headings. Careful studies, they constitute a political challenge to the New Deal.

In fact, this Eisenhower program is so liberal in many of its aspects that some Democrats may charge that its provisions were borrowed from them. Extreme liberals may say its recommendations don't go far enough. But reactionary Republicans will say it is far too left wing.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER'S State of the Union message was in broad generalities. The Budget message tossed the billions around in such bookkeeping detail that it was incomprehensible. But the Economic Report comes out as a campaign document that Eisenhower Republicans can ride on as their platform for 1956, if they will.

The introductory part of the message and its many charts give a picture of today's record prosperity. Gross national product is approaching 400 billion dollars. Total employment at nearly 65 million. Unemployment reduced over the past year. Average industrial weekly wage near $80.

DEMOCRATIC HOPEFULS:

Dark Horse Candidates Expected to Have Little Chance at Convention

Editor's Note: This is the last in a series on the 1956 Democratic presidential hopefuls.

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON UP—This presidential election year is a bad one for dark horse Democratic candidates.

It was not always so. The phrase, dark horse, was coined in 1844 to describe the unforeseen Democratic nomination of James K. Polk of Tennessee for president. He was the first dark horse and he defeated Kentucky's Henry Clay.

Polk's platform demanded "re-annexation of Texas and re-occupation of Oregon." It favored tariff reform. Texas and Oregon will be factors in the fate of 1956 dark horses, but in conflict with each other.

The most discussed dark horse might expect some substantial support from Texas and some substantial opposition from Oregon. He is 60-year-old Frank J. Lausche, the five-term governor of Ohio. Lausche is the Democrat who publicly states that he voted in 1950 for Republican Robert A. Taft for the Senate, and that he did so because he thought Taft's Democratic opponent would be controlled by the labor bosses. Lausche also is a Catholic.

Williams, Surprise Politician

But it is far less his religion than his political independence that causes practically everyone to agree that Lausche could not be nominated in a Democratic convention this year or for some time to come. Organized labor cannot handle Lausche on his home grounds. But organized labor is ready for him in the party convention.

The great states of the North, East and West are the areas of the Democratic-labor coalition. That coalition has the votes to stop Lausche cold, although he will own Ohio's 58-vote delegation as a favorite son. Lausche is shooting this year for the Senate seat of Republican George H. Bender, who succeeded Taft.

To the north, Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan reigns as one of the real political surprises of current politics. Williams was once regarded as more an amateur than a political operator. He is 44 years old, a folksy, natty man who has made a green and white polka dot tie his political trademark.

In and out of the Roosevelt and Truman administrations from time to time, Williams served a hitch as Michigan's attorney general in 1930-40. He was elected governor in 1948 and he's still there with none in sight to displace him. His position in the Democratic party is secure.

Dark Horses Ready

Williams is in close partnership with organized labor, notably the CIO wing led by Walter Reuther which is dominant in Michigan's automotive industry. Williams would be strong wherever Lausche would be weak, but probably not strong enough anywhere this year.

The list of dark horses would reach from here to way out yonder. Count in two very old men, Sen. Alben W. Barkley, 78, of Kentucky, and Speaker Sam Rayburn, 74, of Texas. Neither is a likely nominee. But if the 1956 Democratic convention were deadlocked as it was 32 years ago in Madison Square Garden, New York, the party would be forced to a holding operation — a caretaker ticket. Barkley and Rayburn would be safe and generally acceptable. So would a good many others.

Every native born Democratic governor and U. S. senator plus numerous members of the House of Representatives has at some time dreamed of being president. Some dream it night after night. The dark horses are too numerous to list. But they will be on hand in Chicago, ready, willing and, possibly, able.

Benson Charges Erroneous Impression Of Farm Problems on Murrow Program

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson said today he would ask the Columbia Broadcasting System for television time to correct an "overall erroneous impression" of farm problems presented on the Edward R. Murrow program.

A spokesman for the agriculture secretary said Benson criticized films on Murrow's nation-wide telecast from Johnstown Thursday night as "not giving a clear picture" of the American farm problem. He said Benson would ask CBS for time to reply.

Murrow presented a series of films on farmers' woes throughout the nation. Murrow said "there is not a whole problem — but rather a whole lot of them."

Benson, in Johnstown for a speech, was asked by Murrow to comment on the problem at the end of the program.

Time Ran Out
"I cannot analyze 55 minutes of program in five or six minutes and I do not intend to try," Benson said. But the agriculture secretary, who left for Washington today, spoke anyway for nearly seven minutes before time ran out.

"At the out set, Mr. Murrow, I'd like to set the record straight on one point," Benson said. "I want to dispel once and for all any impression tonight's viewers might have gained from your introductory remarks and from the filming of the farm auction and other things at Cornings, Iowa. . . an impression that thousands of farmers in Iowa and elsewhere are being driven off their farms."

"This is just not true. In particular I make note of your statement that some economists and agriculture experts claim we are witnessing the death of the small farmer. Later on I believe you said some economists state that there are too many small farmers, that one million of them must be nudged off the land into industry. Of course our economy should be kept fluid, but the fact is fewer farmers left the farm in the past three years than in the preceding three years."

Murrow's film showed foreclosures of farms and presented views on the farm problem by farmers themselves.

Benson said any attempt to persuade the American people that small farmers "are dying in Iowa or anywhere else is a perversion of the truth and . . . demagoguery at its worst. I hope that no one will promote that thought in America."

At one point in his "rebuttal," Benson admitted a "serious" farm problem exists.

The Bad Lands of South Dakota are called that because the land is too poor to farm and is extremely difficult to travel.

U. I. Scientists to Hunt American Mastodon; Huge Jawbone is Found

URBANA, Ill. (AP) — University of Illinois scientists will go hunting for an American mastodon that has been dead for about 10,000 years.

The mastodon, a hairy giant related to the elephant, roamed the Illinois prairies in prehistoric times.

The scientists got on his trail earlier this month when a farmer and two Illinois Central Railroad brakemen brought them an 18-inch long section of jawbone.

Professional fossil experts described the jawbone as belonging to the mastodon, and the hunt was on.

Dr. Donald F. Hoffmeister, curator of the University of Illinois Natural History Museum, said he and a group of experts from the State Geological Survey will go over the ground where the jawbone was found "as soon as the weather permits and as soon as we can get permission from the people who own the land."

The jawbone was found on the farm of Merle Wikoff, about a mile west of Roberts. It was brought to the scientists by Wikoff,

Leaders Predict Approval of Health Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional leaders today predicted approval of a multi-million-dollar federal program to provide more doctors and scientists for the nation's fight against disease.

But Democrats served notice they will drive for adoption of their own bills, which call for more government aid than the administration has recommended.

In his special health message Thursday, President Eisenhower asked Congress for $250 million in federal grants over five years to expand medical schools and build badly needed research facilities. The Democratic bills would provide $340 million for the same purpose.

Rep. Percy Priest (Tenn.), the House's top Democratic spokesman on health legislation, said Congress will continue working on the Democratic measures but will certainly consider the administration bill when it is submitted — probably late today or early next week.

In general, Priest said, he is "very happy" with the President's message. It called for a major increase in spending for medical research, more money for hospitals, and extension of the free polio vaccine program.

Priest predicted "most of the proposals will be enacted during this session." Sen. H. Alexander Smith (N.J.), a Republican spokesman on health legislation, called the President's program "forward looking and constructive." But Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Me.) expressed "disappointment" that it doesn't call for more money.

Irvin Manhunt Spreads to Two More States

PRINCETON, Ind. (AP) — The strange manhunt for Leslie Irvin spread to two more eastern states today, but police appeared no nearer to catching the "Chinese execution" killer of six persons.

A Paterson, N. J., tavern owner reported that the condemned killer downed a "couple of beers" in his saloon. Police immediately notified FBI agents, who are in charge of the nationwide manhunt.

Meanwhile, Baltimore, Md., police arrested a man Thursday night and reported he was a "good suspect." But a fingerprint check showed he wasn't Irvin.

The 31-year-old Indiana gunman broke out of the "escape proof" county jail here last Jan. 18. He had been sentenced to die for one of his "Chinese execution" murders and was under indictment for five others.

Irvin earned the "Chinese executioner" title because he forced his victims to kneel before shooting them in the back of the head.

Americans Get Poor Start in Olympics; Andrea Lawrence Ties for Fourth

CORTINA, Italy (AP) — United States athletes got off to a poor start in the 1956 Winter Olympic Games today when defending champion Andrea Mead Lawrence only tied for fourth place in the women's giant slalom ski race and American bobsled teams placed far behind the Italians at the halfway point of the two-man competition.

America's hockey team completed a thoroughly disappointing day for the Yanks by losing to Czechoslovakia, 4-3, in the first round of the Olympic tournament. The Czechs broke a 2-2 tie in the final period to win.

At the end of the first day's competition, Finland, Russia and Germany were tied for first place in the unofficial team standings with 10 points each.

First place in an event is worth 10 points in the team standings, second place counts 5 points, third place is 4, and so on down to 1 point for sixth place.

Mrs. Lawrence, who won two gold medals for the United States in the 1952 Winter Olympics, failed in her bid to defend the giant slalom championship. The event was won by Ossi Reichert, 29-year-old German girl.

All times in the giant slalom event were subject to a complicated official re-check that could change the standings. No changes among the leaders were expected, however.

American hopes of winning a gold medal in the two-man bobsled event were virtually eliminated when the sled driven by Bud Washbond of East Hartford, Conn., could place no better than fifth after the first two heats, while the other U. S. crew driven by Art Tyler of Rochester, N. Y., had the sixth best aggregate time.

The first gold medal of the 1956 Winter Games was won by Veikko Hakulinen, Finnish ski king, who defeated the best Russian and Swedish competition in the 30-kilometer (18.6 miles) cross-country race. Hakulinen, a 31-year-old forestry engineer, came from behind to win the event in 1 hour, 44 minutes and 6 seconds.

America's three other entries in the women's giant slalom race, Gladys Werner, Steamboat Springs, Colo., Penny Pitou, Laconia, N. H., and Betsy Snite, Norwich, Vt., all finished far out of the running.

Miss Reichert, the Bavarian slalom champion, raced the one-mile course down the Canalone Della Tofane Mountain in 1 minute, 56.5 seconds.

Mrs. Lawrence, one of America's hopes for a gold medal, was timed in 1:58.3, tying the favored Madeline Berthod of Switzerland, who fell.

Two more heats in the bobsled race will be run off Saturday and the championship will be decided by the fastest aggregate time for the four heats.

8 Race Horses Killed in Fire At Tropical Park

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The death toll of thoroughbred race horses killed in Thursday's stable fire at the Tropical Park track stood at 8 today but track veterinarians said that all of the other 20 injured horses probably would survive.

Veterinarians said the six race horses that died in the flames would have to be identified from serial numbers tattooed inside their lower lip. Two other thoroughbreds escaped from the blazing stable but had to be destroyed because of severe injuries.

Track veterinarians fought to save other horses injured in the terrified stampede of some 100 steeds from the flames through a four-square mile residential area of southwest Miami.

Chief Investigator Tom Parker said the blaze resulted from "carelessness," but that the exact cause has not been determined.

Galatia in Finals

Favored Carrier Mills raced to a 62-35 victory over Galatia in the championship game of the Midget conference tournament. The tournament, played at Carrier Mills, ended Thursday night with the playing of the consolation and championship games.

In the session opener Raleigh beat Muddy 41-23 for third place.

Galatia stayed close during the entire first half and it wasn't until the third quarter was about half gone that Carrier Mills broke away for a safe margin.

Carrier Mills led 9-8 at the quarter and 26-20 at halftime. After three quarters the score read 43-20. Then Carrier Mills outscored Galatia 20-5 in the final frame to make the score decisive.

Taborn of Carrier Mills was the game's top scorer with 18. In 25 games this season the jump-shooting guard has scored a total of 631 points.

Raleigh led Muddy at the end of every period in the battle for third place, 13-8, 22-14, 24-20 and the final score was 41-23.

Following the championship game trophies were awarded by Ben Brinkley of Muddy, vice president of the Midget conference.

The entire playing and cheer leading squads from Carrier Mills, Galatia and Raleigh were called to the playing floor and the trophies accepted by the team captains—Gary Taborn of Carrier Mills, Robert Boyett of Galatia and Ronnie Cantrell of Raleigh.

Carrier Mills also won the conference championship for regular season's play and received the large travelling trophy. This is the second "leg" CM has on the trophy, which will be retired by the first school to win it three times.

Nats Trounce Warriors, 100-89

By United Press

The Syracuse Nationals, Eastern Division winners in the National Basketball Assn. last season, gained a little ground today in their desperate battle to gain this year's playoffs.

The Nats, now in last place, moved within two games of the slumping third-place New York Knickerbockers Thursday night by trouncing the Philadelphia Warriors, 100-89. It was the only league action scheduled Thursday night.

Bill Kenville, former St. Bonaventure star, broke the game open in the first quarter when he sank six of seven shots to boost the Nats into a 28-18 lead. Adolph Schayes, former NYU ace, sank 14 points in the second period as the Nats built a 58-44 half time lead and coasted home from there.

Kenville and Schayes tied for scoring honors with 26 points, while Paul Arizin had 22 and Neil Johnston 21 for the first-place Warriors.

The third annual Saline County basketball tournament starts tonight.

In its short history this has become one of, if not, the top athletic event in the county. Davenport gym is expected to be filled to capacity by time of the opening tipoff at 7 p. m.

Second game of the evening is listed for 8:30.

In the two previously played tourneys Carrier Mills and Harrisburg have carried off the championship trophy. CM winning the first tourney, played in 1954 and Harrisburg taking the title in 1955.

Two years ago Carrier Mills defeated Galatia 53-49 and Eldorado won from Harrisburg 54-47 on opening night. Then Galatia won from Harrisburg 91-72 for third place and Carrier Mills beat Eldorado 56-44 for the title.

Duane and Orto of Galatia set tourney scoring records with 33 points each.

Last year Harrisburg won from Galatia 66-51 and Eldorado defeated

Carrier Mills 74-44 on opening night. Harrisburg went on to take the championship by winning from Eldorado 57-50 and Carrier Mills took third place honors with a 72-60 win over Galatia.

Oliver Rollins of Carrier Mills set a new scoring record by racking up 37 points in the battle for third place. He will be back attempting to break his own record and give players of the future a higher mark to shoot at.

All students from the four high schools are also engaged in an attempt to break another tournament record.

Last year the first Polio Penny Parade was held in conjunction with the tourney and a total of 222,074 pennies were turned in to the March of Dimes campaign by the students. In the contest to elect a Polio Penny Parade Queen Carrier Mills was the winner. The CM candidate, Miss Elaine Smith, was crowned Queen when her school collected the greatest percentage of its quota—based on 100 pennies per pupil.

The high school student bodies are busy again with a penny parade and hope to set a new record. The penny parade and Queen Coronation are set for the intermission between the first and second games tonight.

This is a "blind draw" tourney and the pairings for tonight will come 10:30 noon from two groups of numbers will be drawn from a hat. Of course the last session Saturday will pair tonight's losers for third place and tonight's winners for the title.

With the first tipoff set for 7 o'clock the crowd is expected to arrive early as it isn't known which two teams will be in action first.

Defending champion Harrisburg has a squad of five seniors and six juniors. The Bull Dog tourney squad—Tony Beal, Don McGowan, Ron Williams, Jack Wright, and Mike Hays, all seniors; Charles Cummins, Jim Cummins, Bennie Fulkerson, Bill Henshaw, Wayne Stone and John Ziegler, juniors; Eldorado's squad is composed of seven seniors and five juniors—Ron Clark, Bob Laffoon, Lindell Lovellette, Bill Putnam, Ron Stroke, Bob Watson and Frank Willis are playing their last year of high school ball; juniors are Ben Dempsey, Marty Feunquay, Don Kingery, Wib Mosby and Richard Overton.

Carrier Mills lists three seniors, four juniors, three sophomores and a freshman: Seniors are James Reid, J. C. Stormes and Oliver Rollins; Juniors are Jim Keys, James Rouse, Harold Fitts, Lawrence Coffield; Sophomores are Junior Manner, Lewis Williams and Vern Rollins; lone freshman is Bob Mitchell.

Galatia will field two seniors, Ron Gray and John Tate; seven juniors, Dale Tate, Joe McPherson, Elbert Cantrell, Gene McFarland, Larry Manker, Bud Hanks and Bob Foster; the sophomore is Lashley Kimmell.

See you tonight.

GREAT Circle

BY ROBERT CARSE

XXXIV

Jered looked away from his father. He studied Captain Proctor. There was the stronger of the two, he realized once more. The captain sat warming his brandy glass between his hands. Just the small, dim anchor tattoo at the base of his right thumb showed him as a sailor. The quality of the clothing, the beaked and veinous nose, the plump cheeks, even the comfortably assured posture in the wingback chair reminded Jered of the patrician merchants with whom he had done business in France, Russia, China, England. The captain belonged to a class; he mustered among the wealthy of the world. But the question was still worth while.

"Is that why," he asked Captain Proctor, "that you were so blasted rude to Kauli at your own dinner table?"

"Yes," Captain Proctor said. He sipped from the brandy. His cheek-ash topped gracefully onto the hearth. "Let me remind you that my servants have eyes and ears. Salem is a place where very little is hidden. Make a warm welcome for your yellow-skin friend and within the week your father and me would be told to give up our places in East India Hall. To say nothing of what might happen to the Southern Trade."

"Blige," Jered said. The rage had broken through his control. "The color of a man's skin can't mean that much."

"Jered, lad," his father said, openly pleading. "Even in the great days of the Whampoa trade we had no Chinese here as guests. Nor did they sail in our ships. We kept aside from them."

"All for profit, hey?"

"Most correct indeed," Captain Proctor laughed. "Now if your friend could bring us some trade, if there was copra of value in his islands, or a quantity of pearl, the thing would change. I'd be happy to outfit him in a schooner, get him to blazes off this coast."

"You must reckon him for a trouble-maker, I don't doubt that the East India Hall lot have him marked down as such."

"Not Kauli, no," his father said. "But you. Slack off the temper somewhat. Hearken to what I tell you. It ain't us you fight in the matter. We couldn't take another course even if we were to have a mind to. Stand up with you the way you feel and we'd be ruined. There's just no sense to buck the bigwigs here and up and down the coast."

Jered cursed, but at his own sense of futility. He knew, rage still burning around the recognition, that what his father said was true. The wealth that owned American shipping was in the hands of the traders and merchants and owners of vast properties. Those were the men who had bitterly opposed Jefferson to the last. They had their inflexible tabus just as in the far islands Kauli's people had theirs.

There was Jewel Owen who with her father on a European voyage in his brig had met, fallen in love with and married a young Parisian. A handsome fellow, as Jered remembered him, and talented, a portrait painter by profession and a Huguenot, whose folks had survived the persecutions. In Salem, though, he was an outcast; nobody desired to sit for a portrait by him, his paintings went unsold, and he gave up and disappeared, was supposed to have drifted westward toward the Mississippi. Six months after he'd left Jewel handed herself in the garret of her family's home on Washington Square. Elkins Colebrook had tried going against the Salem current, too. He had been a widower, then came to care for the housekeeper who had tended him and his children. The trouble there was that she was supposed to have a dash of Pequot tribe blood on her mother's side. Elkins married her anyhow. But when he insured his ships for the next voyage he had to pay a tremendous rate. Cargo went to other ships instead of his; captains quit him, and mates. He sold out before he was an absolute bankrupt.

There were others, more than he needed to recall now, Jered thought. He had the lesson well in mind: If he had enough dollars, he might fight and win. Not that he was whipped. But, lacking the money, he was forced to temporize with these men that up to here had escaped him.

"I was wrong," he said. "I should have been able to figure it." "Pour the lad another brandy," Captain Proctor told Phillip Naish. "Now let's talk ship. Jerry, we've been holding off telling you that we have a clipper laid down on the ways in Boston. A Donald McKay design and ready to take to sea. We fancy you to go master of her."

Jered placed his glass on the mantelpiece after his father had refilled it. A fine moisture was in the cracks of the palms of his hands. His mouth had a wry, dry taste, the rage had left him nervous and confused. He felt himself suddenly at a distinct disadvantage. This pair handled him nicely, with only a few rough spots along the way. Sure as sure, Phoebe would tell him that he'd been born coddled, and he hadn't begun to come upon an answer for Kauli.

"Gentlemen," he said, "it's my second night in port in well nigh a year and a half. Phoebe and my friend are waiting for me. Last time in, you gave me a night ashore. I'd like a spell so's I can think. But, how about these steamers? We passed one off the Cape May. Isn't there profit in them, and a berth, maybe, for a fella like Kauli?"

Drop Demand for Limitations on Farm Supports

WASHINGTON (U.S.)—The administration will make no further effort to get Congress to approve a limitation on the size of government price support loans on farm crops, a spokesman said today.

The Agriculture Department spokesman said recent statements by President Eisenhower and Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson on the desirability of such a limitation were "not firm recommendations." They were only invitations for Congress to consider the matter, he said.

The administration earlier had noted that some large commercial farmers have received government loans as high as $500,000.

In his farm message to Congress, Mr. Eisenhower noted that "price support loans of tremendous size have occasionally occurred." He added, "it is not sound government policy to underwrite at public expense such formidable competition

During the annual convention of the Illinois Association of Agricultural Fairs, at the election of officers Wilbur Layman, Lincoln, was named president of the association; Mrs. Fay Stumpe, Pinckneyville, first vice-president; Henry J. (by large farm operations) with family-operated farms."

Benson later testified along the same line before the Senate Agriculture committee. But he failed to put any such provision in the administration farm bill.

However, Chairman Allen J. Ellender (D-La.) included it in a tentative committee bill. He called up the provision for committee discussion behind closed doors today.

Some committee members already have expressed strong opposition to the limitation proposal, fearing that it would result in large farmers raising crops solely for the market while small farmers sold theirs entirely to the government.

Hubly, Mason City; Percy F. Loisel, Kankakee; and C. H. Hough, Sandwich, Ill.

This was the 20th consecutive year that Rep. Paul Powell was appointed to this Board, because of his interest in agricultural fairs. Powell is also secretary of the Massac County Fair, and formerly was a member of the Vienna and Harrisburg County Fairs.

Governor Stratton was principal speaker at the annual banquet held in the State Armory Tuesday night, Jan. 24th, and painted a concise picture of the future of agricultural fairs in Illinois, predicting that they would become larger and more important. He congratulated the association on the job it had done in the past and urged every effort to make the fairs even better.

Stillman J. Stanard, director of the Illinois Department of Agriculture, also addressed the meeting.

In 1955, 98 county fairs were held in Illinois, which was an all-time high.

Seven Killed, One Hurt in Collision

RAWLINS, Wyo. (AP)—Seven persons were killed and one was injured critically Thursday night when two cars collided on an icy stretch of U. S. 30 about 28 miles west of here.

The dead included a woman and two small children from Denver. Two of the dead have not been identified due to the mangled condition of the bodies, the state patrol said.

Mrs. Lela Cagle of Denver died early today of injuries she received in the accident, in which her two children, Kathy, 4, and David, 2, were killed instantly.

Four persons riding in the other car also were killed outright in the smashup. They were James C. Martin, a sailor, and Lulle E. Eline Townsley, Powell, Wyo., another unidentified woman, and an infant.

Mrs. Cagle and her children were passengers in a car driven by George Apulie, 30, Denver, who was in fair condition at a hospital.

Asks $25 Million For Losses by Sterile Bull, Dwarf-Bearing Cows

FREEHOLD, N. J. (AP)—An Indiana cattleman sought $25 million dollars today for losses allegedly suffered in buying "sterile bull" and "dwarf-bearing cows."

Theodore H. Thompson, Carmel, Ind., filed suit in Superior Court against Dr. Armand Hammer, part-owner of the Shadow Isle Farms, Colts Neck, N. J.

Thompson charged that when he bought the livestock in 1952 Hammer told him the bull was a "proven sire," when "the sellers knew the bull not to be proved and knew it was sterile."

Thompson said he mated the bull with 48 cows in his herd and not one produced a calf.

He also charged four of the eight cows he purchased from Hammer bore "dwarfed calves" which died at birth.

The complaint said Thompson purchased the bull for $2,500 from Hammer Aug. 2, 1952, in Louisville, Ky. The cattle were bought at the Shadow Isle Farms in September, 1952, for $48,900.

The Shadow Isle Corp. and United Distillers of America Inc., part-owner of the farm, also were named defendants in the suit.

Thousands at Billy Graham Meetings

not be able to understand each other, Billy spoke about a man by the name of Jesus Christ. Some of the people in the strange congregation had never heard of Him. To others Christ was just one of thousands of other gods, but Billy described Him as the only God, with the Bible quotation "I am the way, the truth and the life. No man cometh unto the Father but by Me." He added: "Many Indians seem to have the idea that Christianity is a western religion. That is wrong. There were Christian churches in India before America was discovered. Christ was an easterner. His skin was not as light as mine and it was not as dark as yours."

He described Christ as the only road to heaven and then told eager listeners they could only get there by repentance of sin and receiving Jesus by faith.

Addressees Students

He gave the invitation. The response was immediate. The front aisle was filled in minutes. Some of those standing before the platform were a tiny dot in the foreground—the sign of a Hindu holy man. A man knelt with his face in the dust. Pitiful little children with their ribs showing stood there looking up. Members of the high and low castes stood side by side. The front aisle was becoming dangerously filled and Billy had to ask people to stand where they were. In the counseling room a total of 1,389 signed decision cards. But over 4,000 Gospels of John were given out. There were not enough Tamil, Telegu and English counselors to go around.

On the second night 904 signed cards and over 1,000 signed decision cards the third night.

Probably the most impressive service of the Madras meeting was a morning address to 7,000 students of the area. Billy stressed the folly of rejecting Christ because the human mind cannot understand all about Him intellectually.

Two hundred and fifty of the students responded to the invitation. A missionary in India for many years said, "These are the finest young men and women in India. This is the first time anyone has ever reached their hearts with the Gospel of Christ." His eyes were filled with tears.

During three days in Madras Billy spoke to over 100,000 Indians and recorded about 4,000 decisions for Christ. Bulgani and Khushchev didn't do as well.

Woman Divorced Last Summer Gives Birth to Triplets

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Mrs. Leona Padfield, who was divorced last summer, gave birth to triplets Thursday.

The three boys weighed 3 lbs. 7 1/2 oz., 4 lbs. 7 1/2 oz., and 3 lbs. 15 1/2 oz. All are reported "doing nicely."

Superior Judge Roy H. Proctor granted Mrs. Padfield a divorce Aug. 3 on grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment. Wisconsin law leaves it to the judge's discretion whether to grant a pregnant woman a divorce.

Mrs. Padfield said she "had no time to think" about her triplets and did not name them immediately. Nuns at the hospital were calling them A, B, and C.

Name Members To Junior Board Of Youth Center

The Harrisburg Youth Council met at the Bull Dog Penthouse last night with Mrs. Pat Sullivan, chairman, presiding.

Freddie McKenzie announced the addition of the following members to the junior board: Freshmen, Dwane Martin and Roberta Steinborn; sophomore, Jane Capel and Bill Endsley; junior, Aileen Bean and Sally Jones, and senior, Dorothy Hanning and Jerry Blue.

Nominations for new junior officers were held by the junior board and the election will take place at Teen Town on Friday, Feb. 3. Jack Wright gave the treasurer's report and announced that $99 were received from the juke box.

The board voted to allow the youth entertainment committee $4 per month for the purchase of new records. Reports were received from the Halloween and Christmas party committees.

Wayne Dixon and Dale Sullivan gave reports from the decorating committee.

The Painters' Union volunteered the labor and painted the ceilings of the center and the walls are being painted by other volunteers. The junior chairman will appoint teenagers to paint on Tuesday evening.

The board adopted a new rule restricting the drinking of Cokes in the lounge.

The nominating committee for new senior officers is as follows: Mrs. Guy Tanner, Mrs. Bob Davenport, Mrs. Pat Sullivan and Mrs. Joseph M. Hart.

The next regular joint meeting of the junior and senior boards will be held in April.

Sen. Lehman Hits Gas Bill as Billion Dollar 'Windfall'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Herbert H. Lehman said today the natural gas bill represents a multi-billion-dollar "windfall" for gas producers—with the consumers footing the bill.

The New York Democrat appealed to his colleagues to defeat the bill so as to protect the "captive" consumers from price increases.

Lehman made the appeal in a Senate speech on the 10th day of debate on the controversial measure. The bill, which has sharply split the ranks of both parties, would exempt natural gas producers from direct federal rate regulation.

While the debate will continue into next week, the bill's proponents were increasingly confident of victory when a vote is reached, probably late next week.

Increase Wage-Hour Field Offices

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Labor Department announced today it is almost doubling its wage-hour field offices to insure compliance with the new $1-an-hour federal minimum wage which takes effect Mar. 1.

New offices announced today include those at Springfield, Ill.; and Madison, Wis.

The decision assures the first primary test in the nation between Kefauver and Adlai Stevenson, who filed personally in the primary Jan. 17.

Yogi Berra Signs $50,000 Contract

NEW YORK (AP)—Yogi Berra, the American league's most valuable player, signed his 1956 contract today for approximately $50,000, making him the highest priced catcher in the history of baseball.

Berra, who batted in 108 runs last season, hit .272 and delivered 27 homers, said he "got a good raise as usual."

"I've gotten a raise every year since I've been with the Yankees," he declared. "And every year it seems like it is easier to get together on my contract."

Berra said he saw General Manager George Weiss at a sports dinner on Monday night "and he made me an offer."

"I told him I'd sit on it," Berra added. "Later, I called him and we agreed on it so I came in and signed my contract."

$75,000 Blaze At Marshall

MATSHALL, Ill. (AP)—A fire Thursday roared out of control for more than two hours before firemen from four communities could check it.

The blaze almost destroyed a farm implement firm and a poultry processing plant. Losses were placed at more than $75,000, plus some smoke and water damage to an adjacent home.

The buildings were located on the southeast edge of the city's business district, and several other structures were threatened before firemen from Marshall, Paris, West Union and Terre Haute, Ind., brought the flames under control.

Gasoline tanks on several new tractors and automobiles at the implement firm endangered firemen, but did not explode.

Queen Elizabeth Leaves for Tour

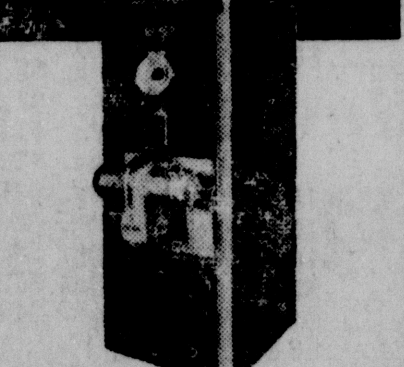

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II left today for her first royal tour of Nigeria, which may be her last as outright ruler of that equatorial territory.

The visit of the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh was considered a major step to dominion status for Nigeria, the biggest of Britain's remaining colonies. The territory is expected to ask for an end of colonial rule when the Commonwealth prime ministers meet next June.

Elizabeth and the Duke departed from London airport. Their children, Prince Charles and Princess Anne, and other members of the royal family saw them off.

Four Ex-Champions In Wabash Valley Tourney Semifinals

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP)—Four former champions, led by Terre Haute Germsteyer, will clash with teams gunning for their first title tonight in the semifinal round of the 41st annual Wabash Valley high school basketball tourney.

One ex-titlist each emerged victorious in Thursday night's firing at four sectional sites. Two other former winners, Brazil and three-time champion, Rockville, were ousted.

Germsteyer, also a three-time titlist and a slight favorite for an unprecedented fourth crown, dumped two-time winner Brazil, 67-47.

Terre Haute Schulte earned the right to meet Germsteyer in tonight's round with a 59-53 triumph over Ellettsville.

Clinton, titlist in 1921 and again in 1946, remained in the running in its own sectional with a 64-56 win over Attica, while Chrisman, Ill., ended Rockville's hopes, 69-60. Rockville won the first tourney in 1916 and repeated in 1917 and 1918.

In the Vincennes sectional, 1937 champion Plainville trounced Bruceville, 74-58, and will meet Vincennes Catholic, 61-54 victor over Solsberry.

Oblong, Ill., the 1936 titlist, downed Farmersburg, 63-54, in the Sullivan sectional while Greencastle whipped the host club, 68-53.

Stonefort will play in the district tournament at Chittiville, scheduled for Jan. 31, Feb. 1 and 2. There will be two games each night, with the first one starting at 7 p. m.

Eisenhower Receives Ben Hogan Trophy

NEW YORK (AP)—President Eisenhower's name was engraved on the Ben Hogan trophy today along with such other courageous fairway stars as Ed Furgol and Babe Didrikson Zaharias.

The award, presented annually to a golfer who has proved an "inspiration to his community" by his comeback over a physical ailment or handicap, was accepted for the President Thursday night by Rep. Jack Westland (R-Wash.), the 1952 national amateur champion.

State Payroll Shows Increase

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—The state payroll climbed almost half a million dollars between September and October — with the increase reflecting the opening of the state universities and colleges, the state auditor's report showed today.

Total increase in the payrolls for the month was $493,290, for an Oct. 31 total of $14,350,340.

Payrolls at the University of Illinois divisions were up almost $300,000 over the previous month, and about $160,000 at Southern Illinois university and the four state teachers colleges.

Payrolls for elective offices and code departments under the governor showed an increase for the month of about $24,000.

Mass Killer Dies In Electric Chair

OSSINING, N. Y. (AP)—John Francis Roche, the mass killer who "wanted to die," fulfilled his wish Thursday night in Sing Sing Prison's electric chair.

The 28-year-old murderer admitted at least four slayings.

The state had sentenced him to death for the rape slaying of 14-year-old Dorothy Westwater whom he bludgeoned and stabbed to death in a hallway of her Manhattan tenement home on June 2, 1954.

In Memoriam

In memory of Sam Reed who passed away one year ago today, Jan. 27, 1955: I have lost my life's companion. A life linked with my own. And every day I miss him more. As I walk through life alone. The call was short, the shock severe.

To part with one I loved so dear. No one knows the silent heartaches. Only those who have lost can tell. Of the grief I bear in silence. For the one I loved so well. I never knew that hearts could ache. With such bitter pain. Longing for a vanished face. To hear his voice again. I never knew that nights could be so lonely, cold and dim. But Oh, I learned so many things. Because of losing him. Sadly missed by wife, Minnie Reed and family, Leo and Wendell Reed, Mrs. Lowell Reed, and grandchildren, Lyle and Dianne Reed. 178-1

Chinese Artillery Opens Barrage on Quemoy and Matsu

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Communist China's mainland artillery opened a two-pronged barrage on Chiang Kai-shek's northern and southern island groups today, sparking new Nationalist fears of an impending invasion.

The Communists shelled the northern Matsu island group twice with two relatively brief bombardings. Nationalist communiques said. The Reds poured 785 rounds into the Quemoy 150 miles to the south, another communique said.

The new attacks coincided with other recent Nationalist statements reporting Red buildups on the mainland opposite the two island groups.

Nationalist island garrisons answered the Communist barrages in all instances, the Nationalists said.

A Nationalist navy communique said two of its warships clashed with Red gunboats midway between Quemoy and Matsu, sinking one of the Communist ships.

The official government Central Daily News Agency said the Communists had completed artillery positions opposite the Matsu group and were moving in large amounts of supplies.

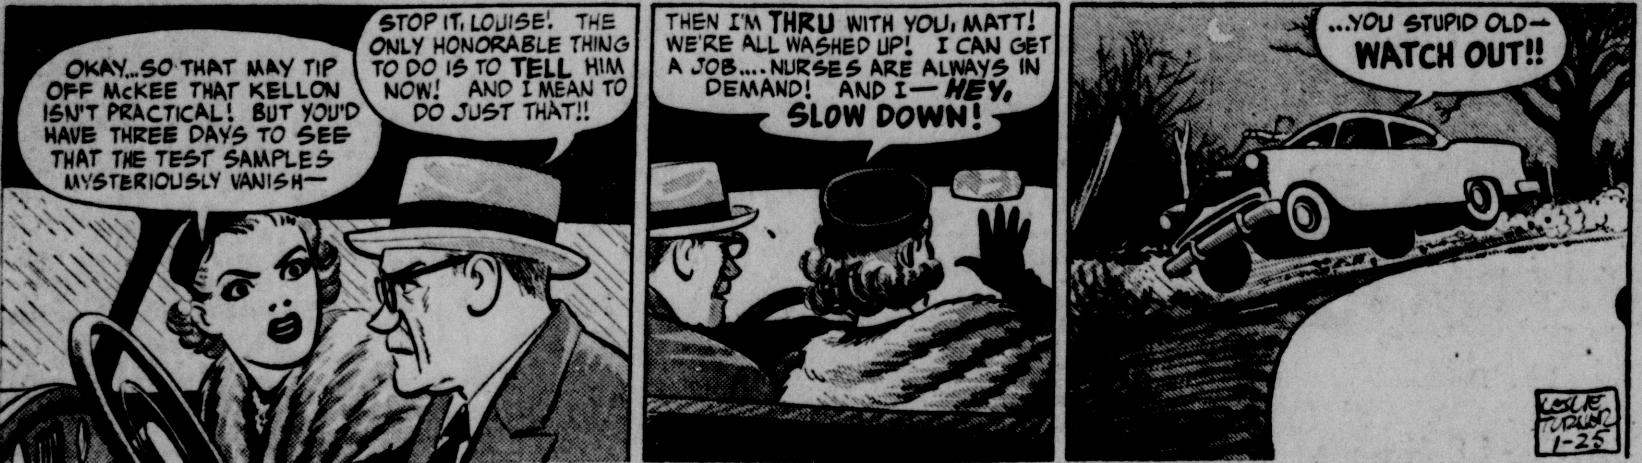

The proposed 13-year national highway program would be financed by the federal government and the states. The states would pay $14 billion, the government $37 billion.

Only Third of Needed Teachers Will Graduate

EVANSTON, Ill. (UP) — Illinois colleges will produce less than one-third of the number of new grade school teachers needed in Illinois this year, a survey showed today.

The National College of Education said it checked all Illinois colleges and universities which train students for elementary teaching and found they will graduate 1,937 seniors in the field this June. Of these, 1,174 are expected actually to enter teaching.

The college said a "conservative estimate" of the number of grade school teachers needed in Illinois, based on losses due to death and retirement and on the growing school population, is 3,780.

K. Richard Johnson, president of the college, said the survey "proves once more the situation which faces both Illinois and the nation."

"Not only must we seek continuously to make teaching a more attractive career, but we must be constantly on the alert for other solutions to the problem," he said.

Johnson noted that average beginning salaries for women who teach are higher than for most other jobs. However, he said "we must find ways of raising both the upper salary limits and the prestige of our elementary teachers."
